Notables Urge U.S. And Other Nations To Let In Jews

Declaring that Palestine alone could not offer a solution to the problem of the Jewish refugees of Europe, fifty-nine prominent persons have urged, in a letter to President Truman, that the United States and all other nations open their doors to a number of immigrants. The letter was made public in New York by Michael Straight. Dated Sept. 5, the letter said:

"Profoundly moved by the fate of our brethren of Jewish faith, by the slaughter of unnumbered millions as a result of the Nazi persecution, by the plight of homeless survivors for whom the future offers no security, we are disturbed that so little has been accomplished in their behalf.

"Conscious of the size and urgency of their need, we believe that this tragic situation must be considered in the broadest possible terms. Palestine alone cannot conceivably offer a solution to that problem.

"We strongly urge that all nations immediately open their doors to a fair number of these immigrants and that the United States of America assume its just share of this common responsibility. We are profoundly convinced that by such action we will make a significant contribution to the solution of a world problem, and, in so doing, will enrich our country with great material and spiritual gifts that immigrants have traditionally brought us, a nation built by immigrants from all parts of the world."

Enjoying The Bible

By Dr. Abraham E. Millgram, Educational Director Of The United Synagogue Of America

"To be admired by everyone and read by no one" has been the fate of the classics, and with equal justice it can be said that this has been the fate of the Bible too. Bible societies have made valiant efforts to distribute the Book of Books. Young confirmants carry it proudly on Confirmation day; brides walk with it to their wedding canopies; witnesses swear to the truth on it in courts-of-law. Even hotel rooms offer it as reading matter for the lonely of heart. Annually, the newspapers report that the Bible is still a "best seller". Nevertheless, knowledge of its contents may be assumed, regretfully, to be as rare as ever.

The reason for this ignorance of the Bible may be found in the fact that The Holy Scriptures is a difficult book to read. Archaic expressions, no matter in what language, strange imagery, and unfamiliar backgrounds upon which biblical events and thoughts are based present obviously too many obstacles for the average person to hurdle. In former days, when Bible reading was part of the necessary religious discipline leading to salvation, the Jews called this reading a mitzvah, men and women gladly made the strenuous effort to con its pages and, by dint of repetition, managed to absorb some of its religious values. Nowadays, however, when Bible reading is urged merely as a religious exercise, as literary example for the acquisition of good English style, or as part of one's cultural heritage, the diminishing results, so far as knowledge of the Bible is concerned, have been catastrophic.

Lovers of the Bible have tried to overcome the inherent difficulties of reading it by condensing it, by rewriting it, by dramatizing its stories, and by providing its more perplexing passages with elaborate introductions. Numerous such books have come from the pens of Christians. Now one has come from a Jewish pen, and is published by a Jewish organization.

The Jewish Publication Society of America has, of course, always been interested in the Bible. It has given the English-speaking world a translation made by Jewish scholars. It has published a number of commentaries on several biblical books. It has produced an abridgement for school purposes. It has published books of Bible tales [illegible] book on the [illegible] and young [illegible] and make-up, [illegible] more than [illegible] similar books of its [illegible]

[illegible]ur J. Cohen, the author of this volume, sets out to [illegible] American Jews "a simplification of The Holy Scriptures [illegible] be readable, easy to [illegible] and even enjoyable." [illegible]roach is marked by a consciousness of the sacred nature of [illegible]. For its part, The Jewish [illegible]ion Society did not follow [illegible] procedure of placing the [illegible]ility of publication on its [illegible] and its Publication Committee, [illegible], it appointed a special [illegible]committee and, what is more [illegible], it chose a group of [illegible]cholars and educators, representing various shades of American [illegible], critically to evaluate [illegible] the work.

[illegible] Jewish Publication Society [illegible]sts in its choice of author. [illegible] introduction, Dr. Cohen [illegible] that the book "seeks to hew [illegible]ideways through the richly [illegible] and forestlike complexities of the Bible literature, so that [illegible] traveller may find his [illegible] through it with ease and with [illegible]. Having a kind of road-[illegible] he is prepared to discover [illegible] the religious truths, the [illegible] insights, and the inspirational beauties that lurk on [illegible] and in every line and [illegible] of Israel's masterpiece." This [illegible] task the author carries [illegible] masterly fashion. His charming simple style and his literary [illegible] taste are evident on [illegible] page. Even the numerous [illegible] reflect depth of discernment and skill in planning. The [illegible] of Judges, to cite one example, is divided under the following [illegible] headings: 1) Disloyalty — [illegible] — Peace; 2) Deborah [illegible] in Israel; 3) Gideon — [illegible] Who Refused To Be [illegible]; 4) Abimelech — The Little [illegible] Who Would Be King; and 5) [illegible] — A Brave Man Who [illegible] His Strength Foolishly.

[illegible] striking is the actual charting of the "Pathways". The selections [illegible] these classic passages [illegible] Bible which "combine both [illegible] beauty and the enduring [illegible] and religious values of Judaism." The material is subdivided [illegible] many sections, each with its [illegible] heading and each containing [illegible] text. Each book is preceded [illegible] a short introduction, and [illegible] section is preceded by a brief [illegible] explanatory paragraph. These [illegible] sections are brief yet pregnant; not only are they illuminating, but they are calculated [illegible] the interest of the reader [illegible] him to "discover, the relevancy of the book's message to the present or to his personal interests." The paragraphs preceding the subdivisions of each book also serve as enlightening commentaries. Thus, we read in the paragraph introducing the section "The Cleansing Flood": Men multiplied and spread over the earth, and evil increased with them. So heartless did they become that, according to our sages, they put clothes on their marble statues to protect them against the winter's storms, but neglected the poor who died of the bitter cold....

In organizing his material, the author follows for the most part the order of The Holy Scriptures, and adheres to the diction of the accepted version except where he occasionally substitutes modern English words and phrases for obscure archaic ones. He also takes some liberties in rearranging or transposing a few verses and a few books. In the latter category, the first to meet the eye is the placing of the Book of Ruth after the Book of Judges. The Psalms, too, are rearranged and placed under the following headings: 1) Sweet Singer of Israel; 2) Psalms About Nature and Man; 3) Psalms About Man's Pilgrimage Through Life; and 4) Psalms About Israel and Zion. The Book of Job is edited and presented as a drama.

Because of its approach, its contents, its thorough Jewishness of spirit, the charm of its style, and its beautiful form, this volume should prove highly popular among those adults and young people who want to become acquainted with the Bible, the first and most fundamental source of the Jewish people's spiritual heritage and contribution to mankind.

The Jewish Publication Society is equally fortunate in its choice of artist. In Arthur Szyk, the publishers commissioned a great artist who is at the same time imbued thoroughly with the Jewish spirit. Szyk broke with the old tradition of Bible illustrations which make the Bible heroes and heroines look either like other-worldly, languid, non-Jewish-looking actors on a stage, or wild and brutal warriors engaged in striking down and destroying an enemy. He portrays the Bible's characters as human beings, as Jews. His twenty-six illustrations are therefore novel and refreshing, in addition to being [illegible] faithful Polish servant whom the Nazis burned alive. The volume is enriched also with eleven new maps, done in the manner of modern cartographers.

Rabbi Alexander Rosenberg, religious liaison representative between the U.S. Army and refugees, expects to remain in Germany for a year to help in the restoration of Jewish religious life; plans to establish, with aid of 25 DP rabbis, a rabbinical and teachers' seminary to provide religious leadership for displaced Jews.

MARRIAGE AND COMMON SENSE JEWISH TRADITIONS

By Rabbi Samuel Glasner

The letter was from the Reverend Father Edgar Schmiedeler, director of the Catholic Conference on Family Life. "Any student of social history," he wrote, "will recognize that the world owes much to the Jewish family." And many other students of family life join with this noted Catholic authority in recognition of this great Jewish contribution to civilization, which may well be regarded as one of the Jew's greatest contributions. Especially today is the importance of the family most clearly apprehended.

The family is probably the most basic unit of all society. Historically speaking, it is the first social unit and likewise the first social institution to emerge in man's evolution as a social being. In the life of the individual, it is the family that provides for the growing child the first training ground in those attitudes and habits of conduct which will determine his success or failure in adjusting to his fellow human beings throughout his life.

It is no little cause for alarm, therefore, that to many serious students of the problem it appears that marriage and the family are today facing a crisis. It would seem that some of the deepest foundations of family life, as we know it, are crumbling. And we who observe it stand aghast at the picture of confusion and chaos which we behold, aggravated no little, of course, by the war and all that it has done to disrupt normal family living. And in striking contrast to all this is the picture of marriage and family life which Jewish tradition presents, so that we may well turn to that tradition again for light on some of the problems which face us today.

First of all, we cannot fail to be impressed by the emphasis which [illegible] upon marriage in [illegible]. Contrary [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Anonymous Donor Revealed As J.D.C. Head Wins Award

The recent death in America of Enrico Garda, former Ambassador from San Marino to France, permits it to be revealed that it was he who contributed anonymously $50,000 to Yeshiva University in 1940. The death of Mr. Garda closed a long career of philanthropy and international service.

The $50,000 contribution has been known as the Mordecai Ben David Foundation and Award. The Foundation was established for the purpose of presenting annually $1,000 "to the student or graduate of Yeshiva University, or such other individual, who shall have achieved a most noteworthy record of success in the promotion and encouragement of self-respect, self-defense, independence and courage among members of the Jewish faith, and in the promotion and enhancement among American Jews of a deep and abiding sense of loyalty, devotion, and patriotism to the United States of America."

Winner of the 1946 award is Dr. Joseph J. Schwartz, Chairman of the European Executive Council, American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee, and distinguished alumnus of Yeshiva University. The awards for the three previous years were presented posthumously: 1945, to Jerome Robbins, Yeshiva student killed on a troop transport; 1944, to Lt. Louis Warfel, the "flying Rabbi", killed in a plane crash in North Africa; 1943, to Captain Jacob Joseph, son of New York City Comptroller, Lazarus Joseph, killed in action at Guadalcanal.

In making the announcement, Dr. Leo Jung, Rabbi of the Jewish Center of New York and Chairman of the Board of Awards, extolled Dr. Joseph J. Schwartz as an "indefatigable, self-sacrificing messenger of life and prophet of hope to millions of our people; impassionate pleader with kings, presidents and parliaments, whose matchless devotion and extraordinary achievements have written a new and glorious chapter of Jewish charitable efforts, and have contributed immeasurably to Jewish self-respect and dignity, and to the enhancement of patriotism among American Jews."

The many-sided humanitarian services of Enrico Garda began long before his coming to America. In his native Italy, he contributed large sums to the schools, and for the promotion of the work of the Board of Education, especially among young children. He sponsored a contest for a book on famous Italians in all fields of knowledge; then established awards for children that came to an understanding of these contributions to culture.

As Ambassador to France from San Marino, the sphere of Enrico Garda's benefactions widened. He established several awards for improvements in aviation. He purchased and donated to the Royal Academy the correspondence and relics of the great composer, Guiseppe Verdi.

During the First World War, although a captain in active fighting, and badly wounded in action, he founded the Committee for Relief of Soldiers' Families, and was a prominent sponsor of the Red Cross. By his intercession with Francis B. Sayre (President Wilson's brother-in-law), the American Y. M. C. A. extended its services to the Italian front. He did much to strengthen, and to interpret to the rest of the world, the Italian role in the First World War.

In the intervening years, the philanthropic and humanitarian activities of Enrico Garda continued unabated, selecting causes that would promote international understanding. Modest and unassuming, he insisted on the withholding of his name from his benefactions.

After his arrival in America, recognizing its role in world progress toward tolerance and peace, and especially its unfolded opportunities for the Jews dwelling within the United States, Enrico Garda established the Mordecai Ben David Foundation and Award at Yeshiva University, from which $1,000 is annually awarded for the promotion and enhancement among American Jews of abiding loyalty to the United States of America.

BRITISH ORT OPENS SCHOOL

ORT, Organisation for Rehabilitation through Training, resumed activities interrupted in London by the war with the establishment of an engineering [illegible]. The building also houses a women's dressmaking class. Equipped with lathes, drilling machines, grinders, wood-working apparatus and other devices, the school offers a two-year course leading to employment in industry or entrance to an engineering college. Subjects covered include general shop work, tool-making, carpentry, electrical installation, mathematics, drawing, chemistry, English and civics. For trainees who want to get jobs quickly, short courses are given in welding, lathe turning and the like. The ORT building is a former garage of which the ground floor only survived bombing. Headmaster is Alfred Lewinnek who was director of the Berlin ORT school when it was moved to Leeds, England, early in 1939. Three of his students are instructors in the new school. In addition to training, the school plans to provide tools and other equipment and work clothes for graduates who receive employment.

VANDALS DESECRATE CEMETERY

A $100 reward was offered for information leading to arrest and conviction of vandals who desecrated the Mount Moriah Jewish cemetery on Fairview Avenue atop Dan Kelly's Hill, in Fairview, N.J. Forty-one headstones and monuments and a score of stone benches were toppled throughout the cemetery, according to police.

The reward was offered by Benjamin Nessanbaum, commander of the first region, New Jersey department, Jewish War Veterans.

"I have never yet heard of such wholesale desecration except perhaps in Nazi Germany," Mr. Nessanbaum said. Police Chief George Sedore said similar acts had been committed previously in the graveyard, but never before on such a scale. He said a check was being made to determine if any stones were removed and to search for possible fingerprints. Apparently no one saw the vandals at work. A guard was placed at the cemetery.

Irgun Calls Paper Quisling

A false bomb threat forced the temporary evacuation of the Tel Aviv liberal newspaper Haaretz, which the Jewish underground organization Irgun Zvai Leumi has attacked lately as a "quisling newspaper."

Haaretz often mirrors the views of Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the World Jewish Agency for Palestine. Recently Irgun Zvai Leumi has been waging a campaign against what it terms Dr. Weizmann's "conciliatory attitude" and describing him as the "Jewish Petain". The bomb warning came in an anonymous telephone call.

Wolfgang von Weisel, noted Austrian writer, has declared a twenty-eight-day hunger strike in the Latrun detention camp, the Palestine Government announced, as a protest against detention of himself and others whom he declared innocent of any terrorist activity or connections.

Dr. von Weisel, 60, is a Vienna-born journalist and author who was formerly a physican. He came to Palestine in 1922 to become correspondent for two then liberal papers, Neue Freie Presse of Vienna and Vossische Zeitung of Berlin.

He was seriously wounded during Jerusalem riots in 1929.

Dr. von Weisel originally was Socialist-minded and later became a member of the nationalist Jewish Revisionist party, but in recent years was reported politically less active while directing a small sanatorium at Dersh, in southern Palestine.

Helps Select Refugees For U. S. Entry

Dr. Isaac Lewin, Rabbi and former alderman of the City Council of Lodz, Poland, left on the Clipper for Vaad Hatzala Rescue Committee, 132 Nassau Street, New York, to work with the United States on a Vaad Hatzala corporate affidavit.

This is Dr. Lewin's second trip abroad for the Vaad Hatzala. He went in 1945 for the purpose of religious rehabilitation of Jews liberated in Europe in 1944 he served as a member of the Coordinating Committee for Fort Ontario to organize the religious life of the group of Jewish refugees brought to the United States from Europe.

While Dr. Lewin was alderman of the City Council of Lodz, he was an ardent opponent of the Polish anti-Semitic leader, Kowalski, the so-called Polish Hitler. He is an author of many books in Polish on history and Polish constitutional law. It was his book "The Right of the Dissolution of Parliament" published in 1933 that called the authorities' attention to a mistake in the Polish constitution, which was later corrected. In 1935, Dr. Lewin handled the case involving the defense of the Talmud against anti-Semitic accusations before an ecclesiastical court in Milan, Italy, at which the present Pope, then Cardinal Pacelli, was judge. Dr. Lewin's thesis in answer to the accusation was fully accepted.

Dr. Lewin is a member of the Polish Institute of Arts and Sciences and of the Research Institute for Post-War Problems of Religious Jewry. He is also a lecturer in Yeshiva University, New York.

Smart Floors for the MODERN HOME

THE BEAUTY of these two rooms is greatly enhanced by coloured floors—colour added by the use of linoleum.

Marboleum, with its beautiful marbled effects, and Dominion Battleship Linoleum in attractive plain colours, provide the ideal basis for interior decorating plans in the modern home.

Pleasing to the eye, a linoleum floor is also resilient and easy on the feet. It resists wear, saves time and work because it can be cleaned by the swish of a damp mop.

DOMINION LINOLEUM

Although supplies are still limited, now is the time to plan. Ask your architect or linoleum dealer for ideas and suggestions for every room in the home.

Orphans To Join Relatives In New World

The first group of 62 children from OSE homes in France to the U.S. arrive this month. The children will join relatives in the United States and Latin America which the OSE located for them since the end of the war. They were at first scheduled to arrive by plane, but the OSE decided to send them by boat sailing from Marseilles. The J.D.C. and the HIAS helped in financing their passage.

Although none of the children are over 16 years old, most of them have at one time or another escaped deportation and certain death at the hands of the Nazis. The life history of 14-year-old Gunther Kirschheimer is a typical example. Born in Berwengen, Germany, he was sent with his parents to the notorious concentration camp of Gurs, France, in 1940, whence both his parents were subsequently deported to Poland. An operative of the OSE managed to save the boy and hide him until the liberation of France. Since 1945 he had been in one of the OSE homes, and now he will join his uncle, Bob Sol, of Philadelphia, Pa.

Another one of the children, Renee Fischbach, a vivacious, black-haired girl, born on December 28, 1941, in Clermont-Ferrand, France, will join the Fischbach family in New York, together with her little brother and sister, Raoul and Irene. Their parents were deported in 1943.

The life history of 8-year-old Judith Koeppel also is a tragic one. Born in Berlin in February, 1938, at a time when Berlin was still a place where Jewish children were born, the child went through calamity after calamity. In 1938, when only a few months old, Judith left Germany with her parents on the ill-starred liner St. Louis, which was turned back at the gate of the New World by the Cuban government. The unfortunate refugees aboard were finally permitted to go ashore in France, Belgium and Holland, each of which took a proportionate share. Judith went with her parents to France, where her father worked as a forest guard until the beginning of the war, at which time he was arrested by the French as a German citizen. Then followed the well-known tragic story the Diary of Gurs, deportation, and the quick closing of French [illegible] of the OSE children's home, Judith Koeppel will finally start life anew. She is going to live with her uncle, Martin Koeppel, in New York.

Research Fund To Help Conserve Wild Life

The Royal Ontario Museum received a research fund from the Carling Conservation Society to permit the projects being undertaken for the promotion of moose and maskinonge, as well as the development of similar programs for other species. The importance of immediate conservation of these resources is highlighted by the example of the trumpeter swan, once found in abundance in North America but depleted until, in the early nineteen hundreds, only two of these birds were known to exist.

The Moose project will be carried out over a three to five year period, taking the form of an expedition, consisting of ranger guides and wild-life specialists, taking along cameras and making detailed notes. When this has been completed, it will form the basis for a moose conservation program. Project director is R. L. Peterson, a specialist engaged by the Museum, who has been studying moose in Algonquin Park since May, of this year.

The maskinonge is one of Canada's most popular game fish, and the project will be directed by G. S. Cameron, in conjunction with Shelley Logier.

The fund, consisting of three annual cash grants, is administered by a Museum Committe of R. Fennell, K.C.; Prof. J. R. Dymond, E. C. Cross and J. Watt.

The committee anticipates also studies along similar lines, dealing with the habitat, food, enemies, and habits of other forms of wildlife. The collection and interpretation of this information will be of material help in the preservation of one of Canada's greatest natural resources.

Appeals For Infants' Supplies

An urgent appeal for layettes, canned baby foods, and other infants' supplies for immediate shipment to destitute Jewish mothers in Europe was issued by Chaplain Judah Nadich, now on a survey of displaced persons camps in Germany, in a cable to the SOS (Supplies for Overseas Survivors) Collection of the Joint Distribution Committee.

Chaplain Nadich, former special adviser on Jewish affairs to General Dwight D. Eisenhower, asked that the Jews of America contribute substantial numbers of infants' layettes and other children's clothing, as well as canned foodstuffs of all types, particularly baby foods, to the SOS (Supplies for Overseas Survivors) Collection. In Europe on a mission for the J.D.C., the Chaplain reported that half of the Jewish wives arriving in the camps in flight from Eastern Europe are pregnant and that large numbers of others are bringing with them infants days or weeks old.

Organized by the Joint Distribution Committee in cooperation with 16 Jewish national women's organizations and other groups to supplement its regular relief and rehabilitation activities among the 1,400,000 surviving Jews of Europe, the SOS Collection has set out to raise 20,000,000 pounds of contributed foodstuffs, clothing, medicines, household and comfort items, layettes and toys.

"No infants' materials are available other than through contributed supplies," Chaplain Nadich reported. "There is a critical shortage of baby foods, as well as of all types of canned foodstuffs." He pointed out that clothing for adults also is needed badly, but that it must be clean and in good condition. "The psychology of the Jews in flight from terror is such that their morale suffers if they are forced to wear old and worn-out clothing. Also try to send more items such as toilet articles, which are important in restoring a sense of normalcy and human dignity."

Chaplain Nadich also suggested that SOS collect additional [illegible] canned meats, because, he said, "A higher percentage of new [illegible] ask for kosher meat only."

CLASS IN COOKERY

APPLE DESSERT

Core and peel six large apples; cook in very little water until slightly soft. Place the apples in a greased baking dish, and pour over the apples a batter, made of beating together three egg-yolks, one-half cup sugar and one-half cup of white bread crumbs; and folding in the beaten whites of three eggs. This makes a very fluffy batter. Bake in a moderate oven for about twenty to twenty-five minutes. Grated lemon rind and a little lemon juice may be sprinkled over the apples before the batter is poured on.

Mrs. Eugene Sterns,
4414 Girouard Avenue, Montreal.

PRIZE BROILED CHICKEN

three small broilers
one-half cup rice
two tablespoons chicken fat one-half grated onion, or garlic two cups cornflakes
one teaspoon dry mustard pinch of sage one-quarter teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
salt and pepper

Parboil rice, strain, add cornflakes and chicken fat. Mix thoroughly with Worcestershire sauce and dry ingredients. Chicken soup may be used instead of chicken fat as moistener. In a flat pan slightly greased with chicken fat put the above so as to bake flat for easy cutting. Over this lay the chicken halves which have been rubbed with onion or garlic and a bit of the dry ingredients as well as a bit of chicken fat. Put this in oven which is quite cool and let bake for about twenty minutes after heat has reached 300 degrees. Pour giblet gravy over this. Serves six.

BATTLES FOREST FIRE
IN GIANT BULLDOZER
TO SAVE TOWN
RAY CUMMINGS
wins Dow Award
Flames forest fire surround the town of Middleton, N.S. Flames eclipse victimized town; the panicked citizens left their shops, and ran with all the food broken, away from the main blaze and were roaring rapidly toward the heart of the town. It was then that Ray Cummings volunteered to drive a bulldozer into the holocaust . . . In an attempt to cut off that surging arm of fire. Calmly guiding his giant machine, Cummings headed into the blaze. Unmindful of the flames sweeping around his machine, he coolly raised his 'dozer blade, ploughed into the inferno . . . and worked his way toward the town by pushing up huge cuts of earth that buried the fire. This provided needed time for the fire-fighters to get organized . . . and won for Cummings the praise of the entire community.
We are proud to present The Dow Award to Ray Cummings, of Moncton, N.B. a citation for outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Victory Bond. Winners are selected by The Dow Award Committee, a group of editors of leading Montreal daily newspapers.

Population Figures Tell The Heart-Rending Story

The Workmen's Circle Call says:

The war has cost us a third of our people. Six million Jews were killed during the war. No other people has paid so ghastly a price.

How many Jews are still alive in Europe? Where are they to be found? How large is their distribution in the various countries? No exact figures are available: nor could such figures be expected in the chaos and confusion of post-war Europe. The best estimate at hand has been provided by the Anglo-American Committee of Inquiry on Palestine. Obviously, it is not definitive and is subject to correction; and even if it were final, it could not be so for any length of time.

The Jewish population in Europe is not settled; there will be a constant movement for quite a while. But, for the moment, this estimate is extremely useful in drawing a picture of Europe's Jewish population. The vast majority are to be found in the Soviet Union and in its orbit. The figures are as follows:

Soviet Union	2,965,000
Romania	335,000
Hungary	200,000
Poland	80,000
Czechoslovakia	85,000
Bulgaria	45,000
Austria	15,000
Yugoslavia	11,000
Finland	1,800

There are only two other countries containing a Jewish population, exceeding 100,000. They are:

France	180,000
United Kingdom	350,000

As for the rest of Europe, including Germany, the list is as follows:

Albania	300
Belgium	30,000
Greece	5,500
Italy	45,000
Netherlands	4,000
Germany	18,500
Switzerland	20,500

The total is 4,224,600. Before the war there had been over ten million Jews in Europe. The most heart-rending figure is the one telling us that there are today 80,000 Jews in Poland. It is tragic in a twofold sense; first, as we recall that there had been over three million Jews in pre-war Poland and that they constituted a Jewish community in the true meaning—in the cultural meaning—of the term; second, as we realize that even this remnant—the fortunate ones who survived the monstrous occupation—cannot rebuild their shattered lives in an environment of comradeship and security.

Equally heart-rending is the figure for Germany. Of the 94,000 Jews there, only 20,000 are German Jews; 74,000 are refugees and "displaced persons," that is, Jewish men and women compelled to remain in the land and among the people that brought upon them all their misery and suffering.

The figures tell a story, and it is a very sad story. For the four million Jews alive in Europe today, the continent will continue to be for many, many years a landscape of death, an immense cemetery stretching from Paris to Stalingrad. And the story is perhaps sadder than this would suggest. One cannot go to a cemetery and place flowers or say a prayer at the grave of a dearly beloved child or parent or friend. There are no individual graves on this cemetery; it is one complete all-inclusive grave.

Presidents Play Palestine Politics

The New Republic says:

Bartley C. Crum, a California attorney who was a member of the Joint Anglo-American Commission of Inquiry on Palestine, made a statement on that issue which deserves to be taken seriously. He identified British Labor Government policy on Palestine with nineteenth-century imperialism, finding the stable core of British policy in an alliance with the reactionary semi-feudal groups in control of the Arab states. He saw the unifying force in that alliance in the common desire to keep Russia out of the Middle East, and the belief that a powerful Jewish community in Palestine is incompatible with such a policy. Crum believes the only hope for a reversal of the British attitude is pressure from the United States, since every British government considers continued cooperation with the U.S. essential.

Crum thinks that State Department officials such as Loy Henderson are responsible for frustrating the Palestine policy of successive occupants of the White House. There are many men in the State Department with whom we are not in sympathy, and Mr. Henderson is one of them; but this explanation is far too simple.

Our Presidents have undoubtedly been guilty of playing Palestine politics in terms of Jewish votes in domestic political campaigns. They have, that is to say, promised American Jews things they were not prepared to force on the British with maximum pressure. Until some American administration makes up its mind which way it intends to go, and sticks to its policy regardless, this divided attitude will continue to work great harm. It seems to us obvious that a real Palestinian policy must be based on the recognition of Jewish rights in Palestine as well as those of the Arabs, for whom the British, actuated by imperial policy, are so concerned.

Blood-Drenched Torah Goes To Palestine From Poland

A Scroll of the Law, drenched in Jewish blood, was handed by the Warsaw Jewish Community to Chief Rabbi Dr. I. Herzog, of Palestine, as a gift to "Brethren in our Holy Land." The presentation was made at a moving and impressive ceremony attended by about 2,000 Jews, many of them survivors of the Warsaw ghetto.

The Scroll was found near the Jewish cemetery in a small town near Warsaw after the mass execution of 3,000 Jews belonging to Pultusk and other towns by the Nazis in 1943, since when it had been hidden in the home of a local peasant who returned it a few months ago to the Jews of Warsaw.

Accepting the gift, Rabbi Herzog told those present that he would take it back as a "most precious memorial of the great Jewish Communities that have died in Poland."

Accompanying the Scroll is a letter, in Biblical style, describing the unutterable tragedy that befell Polish Jewry at the hands of the Nazis.

"Among the sacred remnants strewn about this country," the letter says, "a Holy Scroll has been found, drenched in the innocent blood which was spilled in the days of fury by the diabolical agents of Hitler. And this Scroll, consecrated in the blood of our martyrs, has been marked out as a symbol of the inhuman agony undergone by the Jews of Poland, that it be delivered to you, our dear brethren in Zion, as an everlasting memorial, having regard to the depth of your sorrow and the poignancy of your grief over the holocaust which has befallen us.

"In the presence of the representatives of all Jewish organizations in Poland, the organized Communities of Poland, in the name of millions of the martyrs of our people, to-day hand this Scroll to Palestine Jewry, through its representative, His Eminence Chief Rabbi Dr. Isaac Herzog.

"Every line of this Scroll echoes the last wail of agony of those carried to the slaughter, and throbs with the battle cry of the Sons of the Ghetto who fought to the bitter end.

"Fix your gaze on this document of pain. May it conjure up before your vision a picture of the suffering of the people of Israel in Poland; a remembrance of martyrs, of dreamers, and of fighters."

INFLATION is no respecter of persons. Like the rain, it falls on the just and the unjust alike.

If, through free and careless spending, inflation should descend upon Canada as it has upon many other nations, its evil would fall upon everyone.

Upon the shiftless, the thriftless, and the black market patrons . . . Yes . . .

But inflation's evil would fall equally on the "just"—those decent, honest, prudent citizens who observe the law and do not seek to satisfy selfish whims to the detriment of the community.

These, fortunately, are Canada's majority . . . these are Canada's No. 1 citizens. In their hands lies victory over inflation.

Here are their five cardinal points in personal financing:

- Hold on to Victory Bonds and Certificates.
- Buy only those goods which are in fair supply and save money for the day when goods now in short supply will be readily available.
- Avoid black market purchases.
- Keep up insurance.
- Build up savings accounts.

This is conservation—the first requisite of personal security—the first attribute of good citizenship.

This is why we say:

If You Are a No. 1 Citizen You will look after No. 1...

This is not selfishness, but the realization that a community is no better, no stronger than its citizens.

Radio Assails British Refugee Action

The Jewish underground radio, "Voice of Israel" bitterly attacked as "harsh and brutal" the methods the British are using in handling newly arrived illegal immigrant ships, as 1,200 new Jewish refugees were transshipped at Haifa for movement to detention camps on Cyprus.

The radio referred specifically to clashes between the police and refugees aboard the ship Four Freedoms off Haifa, whose passengers wasted with hunger, thirst and fatigue, crawled or were carried to the transport Empire Heywood for deportation to Cyprus. The refugees were transferred to the Empire Heywood half a mile off the Haifa breakwater.

The foredeck of the transport was strewn with barbed wire. Some of the Jews appeared to be ill and even said they had been without water for three days. Two hundred of them were children.

Armed British soldiers guided the sailing mobs like vassal and killed others over the side. The Jews shouted "Hitler Heute" as the Empire Heywood made ready to sail. A delegation of British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin voted to call on President Truman to convene a special session of Congress to consider legislation to ease the immigration of displaced persons.

It was decided to send a questionnaire to all candidates for national and State offices asking their views on the admission of refugees on the basis of unfilled quotas and on the opening of Palestine to displaced persons.

DEATH ENDS CAREER

the feasibility of Zionists, non-Zionists and anti-Zionists the world over uniting to rehabilitate Palestine as a homeland for those Jews who might seek a haven there.

In 1922 Dr. Landman, invited by the Foreign Affairs Committee of the House of Representatives to give his opinion on the Hamon resolution expressing "satisfaction at the restoration of Palestine as the national home of the Jewish race," contended that the majority of the Jews of America "are opposed to political Zionism, to the idea that the Jews all over the world constitute a nation." He also maintained that the Arab-Jewish problem in Palestine can best be solved by collaboration.

In 1927 he was largely responsible for the organization of the Permanent Commission on Better Understanding among Catholics, Protestants and Jews in America. In the same year he went to Mexico as a member of a committee to investigate Catholic difficulties there.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Beatrice Eschner Landman; two sons, Amos and David Landman, a daughter, Mrs. Pierre Palmer, jr.; a brother, Rabbi Solomon Landman, and a sister, Miss Jennie B. Landman.

The passengers apparently were from many lands. Germans were spoken by many. A Jewish interpreter said they were "from Hungary, Germany, Czechoslovakia —all over central Europe."

tradition which became dogma and a point of honor, namely probity, impartiality and information, whatever the form or subject. The fact that the Palestine radio violated it so impudently shows by what spirit and methods the British administration in Palestine is directed." In conclusion, Mr Blum expressed hope that this incident will lead his comrades and friends in the Labor Cabinet to form an opinion of the situation more independent, than hitherto, of the advice of their special officials.

Commenting on Mr. Blum's article, the Manchester Guardian says that Leon Blum is one of the best friends Britain possesses and if he is correctly informed regarding the manner in which the Palestine radio broadcast his article, then it is very grave.

Fifty-two Jewish chaplains, who have served or are still in service with all branches of the armed forces of the United States and Canada, were the recipients of "scrolls of honor" at the inaugural dinner of Yeshiva University in New York. The dinner marked the expansion of Yeshiva into a University, the first to be established under Jewish auspices in the Americas, and was attended by more than 1,000 religious, educational and communal leaders.
